"I have a Dream" is a public speech delivered by American activist Martin Luther King Jr. during the March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom on August 28, 1963, in which he calls for an end to racism in the United States and called for civil and economic rights. Delivered to over 250,000 civil rights supporters from the steps of the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D.C., the speech was a defining moment of the civil rights movement. Beginning with a reference to the Emancipation Proclamation, which freed millions of slaves in 1863, King observes that: "one hundred years later, the Negro still is not free". Toward the end of the speech, King departed from his prepared text for a partly improvised peroration on the theme "I have a dream", prompted by Mahalia Jackson's cry: "Tell them about the dream, Martin!" In this part of the speech, which most excited the listeners and has now become its most famous, King described his dreams of freedom and equality arising from a land of slavery and hatred. John Meacham writes that, "With a single phrase, Martin Luther King Jr. joined Jefferson and Lincoln in the ranks of men who've shaped modern America". The speech was ranked the top American speech of the 20th century in a 1999 poll of scholars of public address.

Q:- What is Passive Resistance? Discuss Briefly After Gandhi.

Ans:- Mahandas Karamchand Gandhi or Mahatma Gandhi was one of the greatest leader of the Indian freedom movement. widely revered as an icon in India and outside, he is well known for turning civil disobedience and Passive Resistance into revolutionary weapons against Colonial rule. Trained in the law at Inner Temple, London, Gandhi was called to the bar in 1891. In 1893, he moved to South Africa, where he first developed the concept of Satyagraha after experiencing racism and violence first hand. In 1915, he returned to India and joined the Indian National Congress. The success of the Champaran Satyagraha helped to establish his position in the INC, and he became the leader of the INC in 1920. He believed in truth, non-violence and Peace. In his essay on Passive Resistance, Gandhi explained that real strength does not come from violence but from
